

West Linn

Tuesday, November 06, 2012

PORTLAND TRIBUNE

NEWS

FEATURES

CLASSIFIEDS

CONTACT US

Featured Stories McKibben's 350.org brings 'Do the Math' tour to Portland - Tuesday, November 06, 2012

■ Daily News Where you Live

Beaverton Lake Oswego Sellwood
Clackamas Milwaukie Columbia Co.
Estacada Oregon City Sherwood
Forest Grove Portland Tigard
Gresham area Portland SE Tualatin

Portland SW

Hillsboro Sandy

King City

Westmoreland coffee shop changes hands...and atmosphere

Created on Wednesday, October 31, 2012 | Written by Peter Korchnak | 📥

The regulars at Mocha Momma's Good Coffee Café in Westmoreland have been noticing a lot of changes over the summer, in their coffee shop – at S.E. Milwaukie Avenue and Martins Street.

open in browser PRO version

Other Pamplin Media Group sites

Boom!

KPAM 860

KKOV 1550

Search

Stay informed about actions by your local government

News

- Stuffed backpacks spark back-to-school glee, at Grout Elementary
- Sellwood business burglars busted
- Llewellyn Elementary School struggles with swelling enrollment
- MAX work creates mess at SE 17th and Holgate Blvd
- Sellwood Bridge detour ramps grow; new bridge starts

On July 1, Shanthi Renee Holland, who co-owns with David Johnson the True Brew Coffee House in the Brooklyn neighborhood, purchased the business and started transforming it into a French-style, vegan, and ecofriendly coffee shop.

"I turned 40 and wanted to give myself a gift," Holland said with a laugh, adding she works at Mocha Momma's ten hours a day, seven days a week.

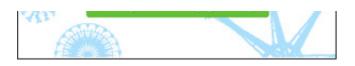

Good Coffee CafˆsˇÂ© in Westmoreland

Since the purchase, Holland and her staff have painted the interior, rearranged the furniture to expand seating, and installed new art on the walls.

Holland said, "There's something new here every day. We're retaining all the customers' favorites, including the locally-roasted Z-Beanz coffee and punch cards, and we're building on them."

Further changes, which Holland will spend the next few months implementing, include updating all the seating, featuring art by local artists, and expanding the former Psychic Night event into a monthly Metaphysical Fair â€" the first of which takes place on Saturday, October 6, from 3 to 8 pm.

Features

- Inner Southeast once again has a credit union
- Early Brooklynites tell their story, and plan a surprise for Northwest fire districts
- Lewis Elementary celebrates 'Walk and Bike to School' Day
- Oaks Park hosts 'Fresh Hop Beer Fest'
- Local artists again welcome guests into their home studios

"The menu will be expanded to include more vegetarian and vegan choices, like salads," Holland said. "We're applying for our own beer and wine license, and we'd like to enclose the patio for the winter as well."

A native of Nicaragua, and a business owner for sixteen years, Holland has been a Brooklyn resident since 2006, after living in Florida, San Diego, and Romania. She told THE BEE, "I like Portland. I like the mild winters and watching the leaves turn."

WANT TO SAY MORE?

Don't have a Facebook account? Send a Letter to the Editor. CLICK HERE!

Best Franchises for Sale

Find Best Franchises Starting Under $10,000. Get Franchise Info.
www.AmericasBestFranchises.com

AdChoices D